FRANK'S RECOVERY SEEMS ASSURED, SAYS THE DOCTORS

Milledgeville, Ga., July 21.—Leo Frank has had his best day since he was cut. The doctors, Mrs. Frank and the nurses are very optimistic and believe his recovery is assured.

Frank has been resting more comfortably than heretofore. He is cheerful and has a good appetite. Mrs. Frank prepared him some ices today, which he seemed to relish very much. He has been eating eggs and other food for invalids all along, having scarcely any nausea since the injury.

Interest is now being centered on what will be brought out in the inquiry to be conducted by the prison commission and Governor Nat Harris. It is not thought much can be added to what is already known. However, further statements may be obtained from Creen. He has gone into his cell, asking the warden to keep people from questioning him about the attack: that he is tired and will not talk to anybody.

Start Investigation.

Atlanta, Ga., July 21.—Governor Harris announced Wednesday that he would leave Friday night with E. L. Rainey, of the Prison Commission for Macon, and would go early Saturday morning to the state prison farm, near Milledgeville, for the investigation of the recent attack on Leo M. Frank. Commissioners Davidson and Patterson will go to their homes on Friday and will meet the governor and Commissioner Rainey at the farm on Saturday morning.

TWO CONVICTS MAKE ESCAPE

Two State convicts, engaged at work on the public roads near Slocomb, succeeded in making their escape Thursday. They were sent away with a team, it seems, and did not return, taking advantage of the opportunity to make a successful getaway.

SEES NECESSITY OF A LIVE COMMERCIAL BODY IN DOTHAN

Editor Dothan Eagle.

Dear Sir: I attach hereto two articles, one from the Montgomery Advertiser and the other from the Montgomery Journal. Both these articles refer to the absolute necessity of a live commercial organization in every town and city. I enclose these to you with request that you copy, and I hope every business man in Dothan will read them carefully, as Dothan is now without such a public organization at a time when it needs it worse than probably ever before in its history. Take the one item of railroad rates on such crops as potatoes, syrup, oats, etc. We are soon to have a business here which will be in shape to handle these and other crops of similar kind in large quantity, but as it is to a large extent a new departure the railroad rates must be adjusted thereto, and this is a man's job. It will pay us to skimp things in other ways and organize a good, strong commercial organization with a man in charge who can handle these things. This is just as necessary to Dothan as to Montgomery or any other place. If we have a good town, why not make it better? I know a town, smaller than Dothan, that has increased its population by nearly one thousand people in the last 18 months, by the activity of a Chamber of Commerce. Is there not some business concern, or some business man in Dothan, who will give the necessary time and thought to this matter during the next few weeks and put it through?

Dothanite.

The Business Men's League.

The annual meeting of the Business Men's League Monday night, at which Mr. Duncan May was elected as President, was stimulated by an unusual enthusiasm. A large crowd of representative business and professional men were present, and many of them, on the floor as speakers, renewed their allegiance to the efforts making for the betterment of Montgomery under the direction of the league.

In concrete results the meeting had the election of a live and energetic president, who has no concern or interest with any factions which may have heretofore existed in the city, the selection of a board of directors composed largely of young men who are in responsible connection with the many of the most successful enterprises in the city, and aroused interest in the work of the league, and the expressed determination of the city of Montgomery, speaking through its business men, to see that Montgomery shall have another and great agricultural fair.

The league is the single business organization supported by voluntary members, working for the commercial welfare of the city. Doubtless in Montgomery, as in other cities, there may be dissent from the work and plans of the organization. Such a feeling is inevitable in every city. But those plans and that work have been undertaken by men who have been energetic in laboring for the general welfare of the city; too frequently the criticism is made by men who have done nothing for the general good of the city.

Those who are trying to carry the burden and who are working, in a large degree of unselfishness, need and should have the co-operation of the entire business community. Montgomery must continue to go forward. If it stops, it stagnates. It must meet competition from other cities, competition which grows keener with each year. The best beverage for the growth of all cities, it has been proved, is a live and enterprising business organization. The cities which compete with Montgomery have such organizations. Not only our future, but our present prestige is dependent upon our own endeavors and our own union and cooperation. The Business Men's League is the one single agency, united for the material and commercial welfare of the city and having enlisted in it the men who have been successful in their own affairs and whose private and personal interests are wrapped up in the general welfare of the city.—Montgomery Advertiser.

It Helps to Boost a Town.

Commercial organizations are the greatest assets of a state or city. To these organizations belong the credit for the most of the growth of a community. The members are men from every walk of life, but intensely interested in the building up of their town. It helps to boost anything, especially a town. Therefore, a commercial organization is necessary in every city that is striving to better itself.

The papers of the country are calling attention to the 450 commercial clubs of Missouri with a membership of 50,000, and point to the great work being done by them.

"The spectacle of 50,000 boosters in constant action for the advancement of their home state and the communities within it is inspiring," says the Detroit Free Press. "It speaks of unity and good understanding among themselves and their fellow Missourians. It advertises to the world a scarcity of knockers, grumblers, grouches, and 'cold-footed' persons generally. These two items are in themselves powerful attractions to home and location seekers.

"True, some states, cities and towns grow steadily and solidly without a united boost by the citizenry. But they would grow faster and probably just as solidly if given the benefit of a little unified action by their people. In any event, the people themselves would profit by the getting together, by bettering their home acquaintance, and by generating a newer, livelier, more optimistic local spirit."

The Chamber of Commerce of Montgomery is working all the time for Montgomery. Its recent endorsement of the packing house proposition shows that every good proposition that comes along will be assisted by that body of progressive citizens. Every man in Montgomery should join the Chamber of Commerce and help to boost Montgomery.—Montgomery Journal.

DOTHAN MAN WRITES OF CONDITIONS IN WISCONSIN

In letter to a friend F. D. Williamson writes of farming advantages in South Alabama over those in Wisconsin.

Following is the letter:

Ladysmith, Wis., 7-19-15.
Mr. Walter Helms,
Dothan, Ala.

Dear Friend: Your letter just received and contents noted.

Glad to note you are all well and that you have good crops down there.

I thought a month ago I would be home by this time, but don't know now when I will get back. I know one thing—if it was left to me I would be back in Dothan just about as soon as the trains could carry me.

One cannot appreciate our section of country and the opportunities and advantages afforded, unless they have a chance to see other parts. There is no question in my mind but we have the whole country skinned when it comes to general farming—right down there in South Alabama.

I feel sorry for a lot of the poor settlers up here striving and toiling against such odds trying to make a living. If they were down South, and knew how to take advantage of conditions they would make double the headway with half the exertion.

They couldn't give me enough of this land up here to induce me to farm it. It's an awful rough country, covered with stone and stumps, and it is winter most all the year. There hasn't been but three or four days that has been the least warm. I am wearing heavier clothing now than I usualy wear down there in the winter. I thought one time I would change about the 4th, but I like too have froze that day, so I have concluded I will not make any change until I am on my way back south.

Guess wife and babies will be going home now soon.

Well, I must close. Write me when you can and give my regards to all the folks.

Your friend,
F. D. Williamson.

The Coming Revolution In Shoes.

After a season of gay footgear, the edict runs that women's feet are again to be soberly shod. A few weeks or months yet remain for the riot of color to spend itself; then the reign of the sombre black will be resumed.

It is useless of the young maid or the gray-haired grandmother who has prided herself that her feet and ankles were the centre of public interest on the street to repine or rebel against the proclamation. The decrees of fashion are inescapable, and whoever seeks to violate them does so at her social risk.

It is no affair of the men. They have watched the passing spectacle with consuming attention and had brought home to them more closely than ever the penalties under which their sex labors in the matter of daily attire. If some superior authority had ordered that women should wear sandals in the manner of the Greeks, they would have been equally resigned and accepted their humble position with becoming grace.

But if pearl and pale-gold and champagne shoes and stockings are to be banished from use and dead black restored to favor, some compensation must be reserved for women. If their shoes should be less extravagant in beauty, will their head-dress be more outrageous in hue, shape or size? Will awning stripes be worn horizontally? Every season must offer its surprise, for what would life be if women, like men, were permitted to wear the same clothes all the year round?—New York World.

People who are grumbling about seeing so much of the Thaw and Frank cases in the papers would be the first to kick about the papers having no news in them if these two were to drop out of sight.

Henry Ford says people should not eat as much as they want. Maybe those who drive Ford's can't.

The Test of a "Calling."

Macon Telegraph.

Many persons have mistaken notions regarding the occupations in which they wish to engage. The "learned professions" the ministry, law and medicine, were once thought to be superior to anything else. Many a boy has been urged into one of these callings without any desire or fitness for it. This makes it impossible to do satisfactory work, or to attain any real measure of success, says the Milwaukee Journal. "There is no great and no small to the soul that maketh all." Not all can choose what shall be their life work. More have to take what they can get. When choice is open, it is wise to choose what one likes. But whatever the work one undertakes, do it upon honor. No work well done can be degrading. He who respects himself in his work will win respect. No calling can be made a success without work.

The wider application of science to the uses of life has made many employments desirable which in past times were considered undesirable. Science has lifted farming out of the drudgery it was once thought to be, to one of the most highly respected of occupations. To be a good engineer or artisan is far to be preferred to being a mediocre lawyer or doctor. To anything that needs doing intelligence and education may be so applied that it becomes as worthy a calling as any other, just as any profession may be degraded to a "job." We grow wiser with the years. Today we ask not, What do you do? but How do you do it?—Macon Telegraph.

Delusions About Force.

Collier's Weekly.

Colonel Roosevelt once expressed a contemptuous opinion of young Christians who have shoulders like a hock bottle. Roosevelt himself has what men call force—has it physicially and morally—and that is why he is Roosevelt. But here in America we have an opposed school of thought—the Friends of Flabbiness. Mr. Carnegie has organized a good many of them into peace societies, and pays their talking expenses. Now, of the two fallacies that keep cropping out about force as a factor in the lives of natives, one is as witless as the other. German thoroughness, skill, bravery, and brutality are proving (as they have proved before) that force doesn't settle everything in this world. The Potsdam officials who are trying the present experiment with blood and iron may stand in Bismarck's boots till they ossify—they will never have his brains. The opposite delusion is that "force settles nothing." Some interviewer attributed this empty pharse to Jane Addams upon her recent return from Europe. Perhaps she did say it, but it is empty just the same. Ask any social reformer or historian who has heard of the French Revolution; ask any Italian old enough to know about Garibaldi; ask any native of Poland—land of the Broken Heart. This is not a world of automatic righteousness and our only real excuse for being here is that our strength may in some way force the cause of better things to victory.

Fishing for fishing is a good way to pass the time away, but fishing for fish is about as near like work as anything.

Maybe Ford's new deal for next year will throw in a garage with each car.

The Love that Passeth Understanding.

People cry, "Love! Love!" and there is no love; for everyone who is helping others, there are millions helping themselves.

When I speak of Love, I do not mean the affection that exists between parents or children, or the love suggested by a difference in sex; I mean the Love for which orators and writers bawl from daylight to dark, and then continue it by candle light.

I mean the Love demanded when an orator says you should Love your Neighbor as you love yourself;

I mean the Love W. J. Bryan entertains for you when he charges you fifty cents admission to hear his good advice.

I do not love my neighbor as I love myself, and I apologize to no one. I treat my neighbor as fairly and politely as I hope to be treated, but there is no law in nature or common sense ordering me to go beyond that. I do not expect this sacrifice of my neighbor, and he does not expect it of me; it is foolish to talk about it.

I am selfish; were I not, I would starve to death. We all help others, but we do not, and should not, do too much of it. We help the idle tramp, and send him on his way clothed and fed, but we do not love him: we have contempt for his vagrant ways; contempt for his refusal to accept industrious and decent ways.

There is no Love that passeth understanding.—E. W. Howe's Monthly.

COTTON ACREAGE REDUCED

Mr. W. B. Pearce, who has just returned from several points around Dothan, says that the cotton acreage is one third or more less than that o last year. He says that the corn in some places will be a disappointment on account of its having such a large shuck. Farmers as a whole are bringing more stuff to Dothan to sell this year in the way of fruits and vegetables, than has ever been known before.

Happenings In

Ashford, Alabama & Surrounding Territory

Dothan Eagle Bureau—Fellows & Forresters' Store

Edited by Geo. W. Collins

Messrs Day, Still, Lowe, Hubbard, Blackstone and Carmichael of near LaFayette, Chambers county, Alabama, are in our section today and report that crops in their section are fine and the trend of business is improving. Some of the party are going from here to Panama City, where they expect to enjoy the gulf breezes and salt water bathing.

Let us not forget the Ladies Aid Society at the New Bush building Friday night. The big singers are going to be there.

E. J. Lee, a colored farmer living on Mr. J. R. Dawsey's place east of town brought us the first open cotton we have seen this season.

This is no cold day in August.

Mr. L. B. Jones, a prominent farmer and insurance man, informs us that he will begin picking cotton next Monday.

Ashford has still had no rain and with the cool change now on we see nothing to encourage the late crop farmer of this section.

By request from an old friend of ours out at Malvern we will state that possibly the most wonderful baby in all the world was born to Mr. and Mrs Andrew Nowell several weeks ago. This little mite of humanity was said to have weighed a pound at birth and one and one-quarter pounds at six weeks old, at which time we visited the home andd saw for ourselves this wonderful little specimen of humanity. The baby died about three weeks ago.

Do not forget the entertainment at the new Bush building tomorrow night. Singing, a special feature.

Rev. Murdock called at our office yesterday and tempted us with more of those beautiful peaches, but that was all.

Obligations are ours to Mr. F. P. Garrett for the kind turn he takes in assisting The Eagle influence in our city.

This is like an October morning at Ashford.

Prof. C. F. Cassidy and Mr. E. V. Bruner went to Dothan yesterday.

The Holiness people closed their tent meeting here last night after a most successful series.

The State examination for teachers closed yesterday and it is reported that there were many applicants for licenses.

Messrs. C. S. and L. E. Mountain went to Dothan yesterday.

Prof. C. F. Cassidy is putting in some good work for the school here while teaching is not taking his time, and this, in our opinion, is one of the very best times to do school work.

Mr. L. A. Rollins returned from the Eastern markets this morning and reports a most pleasant trip and one that will prove profitable to his many customers.

The big gins here are getting ready and in just a little while new cotton will be on the market.

A letter from W. W. Cook of Fayette, Ala., and who for the past several years was the popular cashier of the Bank of Ashford here, states that he is safely installed in his new home where he is prominently connected with the Bank of Fayette.

Mr. L. A. Rollins informs us that he spent last Tuesday in Washington, and gives a most interesting account of our nation's capital. In his arguments on embargoes and Germanic notes, with President Wilson, he came out winner on all occasions, but the President in his usual good humor, extended to him every courtesy becoming to a president dealing with notables and dignitaries.

Come to the Bush building tomorrow night and verily you shall have your reward.

Mr. Jasper McArthur and sister, Miss Robbie, were in Ashford visiting yesterday.

Mr. DeWitt Williams, who has been attending the summer school at Auburn for the past several weeks, returned home this morning. DeWitt came back looking well and claiming to have done well during his stay in Auburn.

Mr. J. R. Dawsey of Pansey, was an Ashford visitor yesterday. Mr. Dawsey reports plenty of rain in his section and crop prospects most excellent.

HERE IS THE MAN WHO SHATTERED ONE MILE RECORD.

Norman Taber, the former Brown collegian and Rhodes scholar at Oxford England, has run faster than any other human being for a distance of one mile In the Harvard Stadium he shattered the world's record for this distance by covering it in the remarkable time of 4 minutes 12 3-5 seconds. The best professional record up to this time was made by W. G. George at Lilliebridge, England, time 4 minutes 12 3-4 seconds.

John Paul Jones, the Cornell runner, made the amateur record of 4 minutes 14 2-5 seconds at Cambridge, Mass., in 1913.

Taber was born in Providence, R. I., September 3, 1891. He is five feet eight and a half inches tall and weighs slightly under 150 pounds when in condition. He graduated from Brown in 1913, and for the last two years has been a Rhodes scholar at Oxford. On account of the war he returned to this country early in June.

STOMACH TROUBLE FOR FIVE YEARS

Majority of Friends Thought Mr. Hughes Would Die, But One Helped Him to Recovery.

Pomeroyton, Ky.—In interesting advices from this place, Mr. A. J. Hughes writes as follows: "I was down with stomach trouble for five (5) years, and would have sick headache so bad, at times, that I thought surely I would die.

I tried different treatments, but they did not seem to do me any good.

I got so bad, I could not eat or sleep, and all my friends, except one, thought I would die. He advised me to try Thedford's Black-Draught, and quit taking other medicines. I decided to take his advice, although I did not have any confidence in it.

I have now been taking Black-Draught for three months, and it has cured me—haven't had those awful sick headaches since I began using it.

I am so thankful for what Black-Draught has done for me."

Thedford's Black-Draught has been found a very valuable medicine for derangements of the stomach and liver. It is composed of pure, vegetable herbs, contains no dangerous ingredients, and acts gently, yet surely. It can be freely used by young and old, and should be kept in every family chest.

Life's Music.

Love in the lilt of life's music
And the toiling goes tripping along,
A smile in the swing of the chorus
And a measure of mirth in the song.
A morning of beauty above us
When lips tell the tale that they love us,
When light heart and gay
We face life the true way,
Clothe thought and clothe feeling with beauty.

Love in the lilt of life's music.
And who would ask more than this—
The strength to be wise in the light of soft skies
And the tenderest touch of a kiss.
A world of brave battle around us,
With naught to dismay or confound us,
With dreams to make sweet
Every clod at our feet,
With hope and with trust in the story
That leads out of trial to life's glory.

Love in the lilt of life's music,
And trouble fades far as night
When the stars in their splendor gaze down on us tender
And the roadway is rosy with light.
As far as we go with our seeing,
All nature made one in love's being,
All doubt with the dawn
Like a shadow that's gone,
And our souls in the light of love's gleaming
Soaring up to the gates of glad dreaming.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys If Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their effort to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.
